- Q.1 Read the following passage carefully and answer the questions that follow. (10)

Most of us, when we grow up and have our own families to look after, have only a limited amount of spending money. Food should definitely be a priority in our budget. Saving, which involves cutting down on food is a false economy. A rough plan of the meals for the week and shopping lists are of great help to the housewife or indeed, to anyone catering for themselves or a family.

Shopping is much easier and more economical if the meals have been roughly planned in advance and we buy only what we have listed. This means resisting the temptation to buy things we do not really need. Modern advertising and packaging have sometimes made foods attractive which do not do us much good. We tend to buy innutritious food items many times because of this. When choosing food, the shopper needs to turn a blind eye to the bright labels and have a good luck at the nutritive value of the contents.

Planning meals is not difficult if we simply remember to include some body-building, heat and protective foods in each meal. This will give us a balanced diet. It is better to eat the protein and vitamin foods first when we are most hungry and fill up with the starch and sugar foods after. Too much starch and sugar and not enough protein would make the diet unbalanced.
